REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

The republican state convention for the state of Oregon is hereby called to meet at Portland, Oregon, on Wednesday, April 21, at 11 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of nominating candidates for the following offices, to wit: Representative in congress, judge of supreme court, governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, superintendent of public instruction, state printer and district attorneys of the several judicial districts, and to transact such other business as may properly come before the convention.

The convention will consist of 205 delegates, apportioned among the several counties as follows:

[illegible]	6	Lake	2
[illegible]	6	Lane	9
[illegible]	10	Linn	11
[illegible]	7	Marion	16
[illegible]	4	Morrow	4
[illegible]	6	Multnomah	35
[illegible]	3	Polk	6
[illegible]	2	Tillamook
[illegible]	9	Umatilla	10
[illegible]	4	Union	9
[illegible]	5	Wasco	6
[illegible]	7	Washington	7
[illegible]	3	Yamhill	9

There being one delegate at large for each county and one for each 150 votes or fraction over one half cast for James G. Blaine at the presidential election in November 1884.

The committee recommend that the primaries be held in the several precincts on Tuesday, April 6, and the county conventions on Friday, April 16, unless otherwise ordered by the proper county central committee.

The committee earnestly recommend that the delegates elected to the state convention attend in person, [illegible] inconvenient for them to so attend in person that they send their proxies by electors of the county they represent.

All republican voters of the state, without regard to past political differences, who are in favor of elevating and dignifying American labor, giving free education to the masses of the people, effectually protecting all human rights in every section of our common country, and who desire to promote national feeling and permanent harmony throughout the country by maintaining a government pledged to these objects and purposes, are cordially invited to unite in selecting delegates to the republican state convention.

Middle Aged Men

There are many at the age of 30 to 60 who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation, and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin, milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. DR. SPINNEY will Guarantee a Perfect Cure in all such cases and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs. Address Box 623, Portland, Or. Office hours 10 to 4. Later hours by appointment. The Beginnings of Sickness

Never trifle with what are called small ailments. A disorder easy of control at first if neglected for a few weeks may become a mortal disease. Be especially careful not to let debility gain upon you, for it is the door through which all maladies enter the system. If you feel languid, inert, and to use a common expression "as if there was no life left in you," resort at once to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. That great vegetable tonic will supply the vitality you so urgently need. It is nerve food. By its tonic action the stomach is so invigorated that digestion becomes regular, easy, perfect, while its mild cathartic properties relieve the bowels from obstructions and its alterative operation beneficially affects all the secretive organs. For the miseries of dyspepsia, and they include almost every unpleasant feeling that belongs to physical disease and mental wretchedness, this potent tonic is a certain and speedy balm.

CONGRESSIONAL.

The Senate Passes the Edmunds Resolutions.

THE VOTE NEARLY A PARTY ONE

Ingalls of Kansas, Makes a Red Hot Speech Denouncing Civil Service Reformers—House Proceedings

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, March [illegible].—The chair laid before the senate the president's message transmitting the report of the civil service commission. Referred.

Among the bills introduced was one by Hoar providing for inquests under national authority. Hoar said the bill was suggested by the reports of the recent occurrences at Carrollton, Miss. The senate had had no information in regard to these occurrences, but newspapers of both political parties seemed to agree about them. According to these reports wanton and unprovoked crimes were committed resulting in the death of a large number of citizens, in which all the victims were of one race, and he presumed of one political party, and all the murderers of another. Such occurrences unfortunately had been of frequent occurrence, but when investigated were apt to take a political turn. Persons defending [illegible] said they had no political significance. Still the fact remained that it was opponents of the democratic party that were killed and the adherents of that party were not the victims.

A RED HOT SPEECH BY INGALLS.

Ingalls denied that the senate had asked for the president's reasons for suspending any one, or that private papers had been asked for. The senate since January, 1886, had confirmed [illegible] nominations. It had again been charged that the senate was trying to keep republicans in office. The republicans of Kansas, Ingalls said, were neither afraid or ashamed to be classed as republicans. They were proud of the achievements of their party. They believed that in all the great measures of the last quarter of a century they were right and their opponents wrong, and were able to give reasons for the faith that was in them. The republicans of Kansas also believed, and Ingalls believed, that no republican could hold public office under a democratic administration without either sacrificing his convictions or forfeiting his self respect. Accordingly when the new administration was brought in those who held office in that state began to make excuses for retiring to private life. He was not one of those who believed in non-partisanship in politics. After the election the democrats expected to get in and the republicans to get out.

THE REFORMERS SCORED.

But a new genesis had come about of late years, a class of political philosophers who believed that non-partisanship was a panacea for all the evils that afflicted the republic, men who decried the operation of the American system, as they called it. This new party had been recruited from the republican party. If there was any genuine civil service reformer who had deserted the ranks of democracy history did not record his name. [Laughter.] The neuter gender, Ingalls said, was not popular either in nature or in science. Male and female created he them, but there was a third sex, if that could be called a sex which had none—resulting sometimes from a cruel caprice of nature, and at others from accident or malevolent design—possessing the vices of both and the virtues of neither [laughter], unable either to beget or bear, possessing neither fecundity nor virility, endowed with the contempt of men and the derision of women, doomed to sterility, isolation and extinction. [Laughter.] But, said Ingalls, they have two functions: they sing falsetto [great laughter], and they are usually selected as guardians of the seraglios of oriental despots. [Renewed laughter.]

GROVER CLEVELAND.

To come from figure to fact, he continued, this third party has distinguished itself by singing in falsetto phrases of civil service reform, and had been selected as guardian of the conscience of the national government. He was not here to impugn the good faith, patriotism or the many extraordinary qualities of the president of the United States. The president was the sphinx of American politics. It was said that he was a fatalist, and that he regarded himself as the child of destiny, that he placed dependence upon the ruling influence of his star. Certainly whether Grover Cleveland was a very great or a very small man, he was a very extraordinary man. His career forbade any other conclusion. The democratic party was not wanting when the convention was held in Chicago in many great and illustrious names—men who had led a forlorn hope in its darkest days, [illegible] whose character and history not only that organization but the country had the profoundest admiration and respect. There was Thurman and Bayard and Hendricks and Tilden and others, perhaps not less worthy but less illustrious, upon whom the mantle of that great distinction might properly have fallen. But Grover Cleveland, a man who at the mature age [illegible] abandoned a liberal and honored profession that he might become sheriff of an interior county, was selected for that position, and when a little more than a year ago he entered the senate chamber and subsequently took the oath of office on this platform he encountered an audience not one twentieth part of which had ever seen him, and the greater part of whom two years before did not know him even by name, and who was at that moment practically unacquainted with the leaders of his own party in the senate. The rise of Napoleon was sudden, dazzling and startling, and many other soldiers of fortune had sprung from obscurity to fame, but no illustration of an elevation from an obscurity so profound to a height so brilliant and dazzling was recorded in history as the selection of Grover Cleveland to the magistracy of 60,000,000 people.

CLEVELAND'S INSINCERITY.

If when he was inaugurated he had determined that the functions of government should be exercised by men of his own party the nation would have been content, and [illegible] was founded the justification that the majority of the senate could use in demanding that no action should be taken in connection with these proposed removals from office until there had been satisfactory assurances that injustice had not been done. If it were understood that these removals were made for political reasons the [illegible] would be content, the republican majority of the senate would be content. The president had declared that there should be no changes in the offices where the incumbents were competent, for political reasons, but they should be permitted to serve their term. Like the [illegible] that were grinding at the mill, one had been taken and another left; some republicans had been suspended and others retained. What was the irresistible inference, the logic of the situation, in view of the president's actions, except that every suspended man was suspended for cause, and not for political reasons.

Ingalls alluded to the [illegible] circular issued by the postmaster general, which he characterized as the most thoroughly degraded [illegible]

[illegible]

The postmaster general's reply to the resolution of the senate introduced by himself, Ingalls showed that 8,000 fourth class postmasters had been removed, in particular by an administration pledged to remove men only for cause. This was twenty-eight removals for every day in the year, and counting seven hours to a day's work, it was four removals an hour and one for every fifteen minutes of every working day for twelve months. [Laughter.] That was only just civil service reform.

Cockrell inquired how many fourth class postmasters there were in the country.

Ingalls did not know.

Cockrell said there were [illegible]000, and of these only about 8,000 had been removed.

"Well," said Ingalls, "the administration of the [illegible]" [Laughter.]

He said [illegible] ... One every fifteen minutes was not so bad. How many do you expect?

This number, Ingalls continued, did not include those who had resigned or whose terms had expired, and this was in but one department. How many in the other departments [illegible] was unknown. Therefore the [illegible] administration should be considered.

LOGAN'S REMARKS.

Logan said that it [illegible] to the debate and discussed many topics disconnected with the question before the senate. The question was whether the attorney general should furnish papers relating to the conduct of a district attorney. This government, said Logan, is based on the will of the people, and the people should have all the information that they thought their representatives in congress should call for. The president [illegible] these papers private, but the moment he places a paper on the files of the department it becomes by his own act a public paper. Could the president [illegible] take those papers and send them to Buffalo, or that he could at any time thereafter take them away? Could he leave them there for ten or fifteen years and then make a demand on [illegible] private papers? That was the argument there was on this. It was impossible to support it by any sort of logic or fair dealing.

Harrison followed in support of the majority. The policy of the present administration, he said, had been without precedent and would be without an imitation. Secret charges had been accumulated against the reputation of men, and what was more, against the reputation of women, and acted on in the dark. The proclamation of the president had been that mere differences of opinion were not to operate against men, but the feast was like the feasts of the old story to which men were invited for the purpose of assassination.

EDMUNDS CLOSES THE DEBATE.

Edmunds, in closing the debate, reviewed the whole question carefully and contended that the two houses of congress had a right to see papers affecting the business of the government. If, said Edmunds, you took out of this very presence at this moment the influence of executive patronage to be given to senators and their friends there would not be five votes in this chamber against any one or all of the resolutions proposed by the judiciary.

The question was then on Van Wyck's amendment providing that in such cases of removals the matter [illegible] shall be considered in open session of the senate. Van Wyck made a strong speech in advocacy of the amendment.

Logan said he would vote for the amendment but for the fact that it was thought that it would encumber the resolution.

Hoar raised the point that the amendment was not in order, inasmuch as it changed the rules of the senate and no notice had been given of it.

The president pro tempore sustained the point of order, and an appeal taken by Butler was laid upon the table, yeas [illegible], nays 8. This was a strict party vote, except that Van Wyck and Riddleberger voted with the democrats.

[illegible] vote upon the Edmunds resolutions. The first [illegible] the judiciary was adopted, yeas [illegible], nays [illegible].

The second [illegible] condemning the refusal of the attorney general to send copies of papers called for by the senate was adopted, yeas [illegible], nays [illegible].

THE OTHER RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.

The question then came on the third resolution, declaring it to be the duty of the senate to refuse its advice and consent to proposed removals of officers, [illegible] documents in reference to the supposed misconduct of whom are withheld. Gray raised the point that it [illegible] of the senate and was not in order. The president pro tempore overruled the point of order, and Gray appealed from the decision.

A vote being taken on the third resolution it was agreed to, yeas [illegible], nays [illegible], Mitchell of Oregon and [illegible] and Van Wyck voting with the democrats.

The fourth resolution, condemning the discharge of ex-Union soldiers and the putting in their place of men who rendered no military service for the government, was then voted on and agreed to, yeas [illegible], nays [illegible]. Morgan [illegible] said that the republican party had violated the law relating to soldiers ten times where the present administration had not departed from it once.

Morgan offered a resolution declaring that nothing in the resolution already adopted was to be construed as declaring that the conduct of the attorney general rendered him liable to impeachment, and that the senate disclaimed the right or power to punish him by impeachment for the [illegible] charges against him in the resolution.

On Edmunds' motion this resolution was laid on the table, yeas [illegible], nays [illegible].

Platt then attempted to make the bill for the admission of Washington territory unfinished business for Monday, but some filibustering motions interfered, and at [illegible] P. M. the senate adjourned till Monday, when Platt will attempt to get up the bill named.

HOUSE.

The speaker laid before the house a communication from Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Fairchild transmitting a draft of a bill to amend the laws regulating immigration. Referred. [illegible] exempts from the per capita tax of 50 cents transient alien tourists, and provides a penalty of $50 for the permanent landing of alien paupers, idiots, insane persons and convicts. The secretary of the treasury is given power to appoint commissioners of immigration, not to exceed three in number, at Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Key West, New Orleans, Galveston and San Francisco, who shall take exclusive charge and provide for the support and relief of such immigrants as may fall into distress.

In commenting upon this change the assistant secretary says: "Agents through whom the existing law is accomplished, namely boards of immigration [illegible] appointed by state governments, and this department has no control of those agents except by contracts which it has no means of enforcing. The bill transmitted puts the entire charge of destitute alien immigrants in the care of immigration commissioners appointed officers of the United States, and leaves them in no state to the charge of state officers, to be treated indiscriminately with other poor over whom the state exercises supervision. If the government takes care of alien immigrants in distress it should not divide that supervision with state authorities."

Also a letter from Assistant Secretary Fairchild asking for an appropriation for storage and transportation of silver dollars. Referred. The letter says: "In view of the fact that the amount of standard silver dollars required to be coined under the existing laws is about $2,000,000 each year, and that the remaining space available in the vaults of sub-treasury offices, other than at New Orleans, is not sufficient for the storage of coinage for the ensuing twelve months, it is deemed advisable and prudent to ask that suitable appropriation be made to enable the department to erect vaults in some other sub-treasury offices, leaving the vault at New Orleans free for the storage of accumulated coinage executed at the mint in that city."

The house took a recess until [illegible] the evening session to be for the consideration of pension bills.

The house at its evening session passed pension bills and adjourned until tomorrow.

SECRETARY MANNING'S CONDITION

Little, if any, Change Apparent—A Hopeful View of the Case

WASHINGTON, March [illegible].—Dr. Hamilton said today that it could hardly be said that Secretary Manning's condition this morning should be [illegible] as yesterday. There was a temporary improvement last evening, but it was certain that his condition showed no improvement since yesterday. It is learned from good sources that the secretary passed a restless night, with more or less fever, and that as a consequence he was somewhat weaker this morning.

Rumors regarding a prospective change in the head of the treasury department arise probably from the almost general impression that Manning will never resume the duties of that office, even in the event of his complete restoration to health.

The son of Secretary Manning said to an Associated Press reporter at [illegible] o'clock that the condition of his father remained practically unchanged. The physicians had informed him that his father was passing through the critical stage of his disease, and that every hour without the development of unfavorable symptoms was so much progress toward recovery.

[illegible]

WASHINGTON, March [illegible].—The secretary's condition tonight remains practically unchanged. To an Associated Press reporter the secretary's son said today was the best his father had had since the attack. The doctor, after his return from the secretary's bedside at [illegible] tonight, said his patient was, if anything, a shade better than last night. He had a very comfortable day. He did not look for any material change for the better for several days. A change for the worse was what was to be expected [illegible], but he felt encouraged. The secretary's breathing was less labored than it had been, and he joined in conversation and joked with those about him. His freer breathing the doctor attributes to his reduction in the [illegible] nourishment given him. The secretary's son was at his father's bedside this afternoon and spent several hours with him [illegible] Mrs. Daniels. [illegible] Mr. Manning [illegible] found better than he expected to find him.

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS.

NOTES CONCERNING THE NORTHWEST.

WASHINGTON, March [illegible].—The house committee on public buildings today instructed Hanley to report favorably to the house the bill appropriating $[illegible],000 for the construction of a federal building at Portland, Oregon.

Senator Harrison presented a petition from a large number of citizens of Whatcom, W. T., asking that the action of the legislature in establishing the penitentiary at Walla Walla be annulled.

Platt of Connecticut moved the senate to take up the bill admitting Washington territory as a state. Cockrell of Missouri opposed it, and [illegible] the majority in favor of taking up the bill. When Platt saw that he had lost his point he gave notice that he would renew his motion on Monday. If the bill enters the [illegible] arrangement of Platt it will stand a poor chance of getting through the senate.

SENATOR RIDDLEBERGER ASSAULTED.

WASHINGTON, March [illegible].—Senator Riddleberger of Virginia was assaulted yesterday in the east corridor of the senate chamber by A. W. Jones, one of his constituents. Jones was heard to ask Senator Riddleberger for money. The senator refused, and Jones attempted to strike him. The senator warded off the blow, whereupon Jones put his hand on his pistol pocket. Senator Riddleberger said that this was simply one of several attempts of certain people to make him do or say something which would warrant his expulsion from the senate, but, he said, "I am on my guard and will not be drawn into any such indiscretion."

[illegible]

WASHINGTON, March [illegible].—It is understood that the president tendered the presidency of the Utah commission to General McClernand, and that McClernand refused to accept. McClernand was chairman of the St. Louis convention that nominated Tilden in 1876, and is a warm personal friend of the Gramercy park statesman. He is a man of great courage and determination, and his ideas of the Mormon question are [illegible] with those held by the president. His refusal to serve on the commission is [illegible] general regret in administration circles.

THE TELEPHONE INVESTIGATION.

WASHINGTON, March [illegible].—Casey Young testified again today before the telephone committee, but nothing of importance was elicited and adjournment was taken until Tuesday.

No bad effect, no poison in Red Star Cough Cure. It is a safe, sure cure.

THE LABOR TROUBLES

A Secret Circular to the Knights of Labor.

PLAIN TALK FROM POWDERLY.

No New Members are Desired—A Train Ditched by Strikers—Strike in the Wabash Yards at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, March 2[illegible].—Grand Master Workman Powderly has issued a secret circular to the Noble Order of Knights of Labor of America, which has just been made public. Powderly instructs the secretaries of each assembly to call a full meeting [illegible] the sentiments which follow.

[illegible] with an order to the assemblies to cease initiating new members until the relations of capital and labor shall become less strained than at the present time, and continues: "In attempts to win concessions or gains with our present raw, undisciplined membership would be like hurling an unorganized mob against a well ordered disciplined army. It is not fair to order assemblies to bring in new members, pick up their quarrels [illegible] as organized and have them expect [illegible] from those who helped to build the order up for robbery purposes."

After dwelling at some length upon the unadvisability of taking in new members at present the address continues: "We must not fritter away our strength to make our order an instrument against capital by rushing into a useless strike."

[illegible] warns the assemblies against receiving into their ranks undesirable employes, and warns the Knights that the politician is plotting night and day how to catch the Knights for the advantages of himself and party, and says that to use the name of the order for a political [illegible] is criminal and must not occur again.

Referring to the eight hour movement the circular says: "Assemblies of the Knights must not strike for the eight hour system on May 1 under the impression that they are obeying orders from headquarters, for such order was not and will not be given. Out of 60,000,000 of people in the United States and Canada our order has possibly [illegible]000,000. Can we mould the sentiments of millions in favor of the short hour plan before May 1? It is nonsense to think of it."

THERE MUST BE A CHANGE.

In conclusion the master workman says: "I write this circular to lay before the order the exact condition of things. I am neither physically nor mentally capable of performing the work required of me. I am willing to do my part, but not to be asked to make of myself a false position before the world any longer. One of two things must take place. Either local and district assemblies of the order must obey its laws or I must be permitted to resign from a vocation which obliges me to play one part before the public and another to our members. I say to the world that the Knights of Labor do not approve of or encourage strikes, and in one day dispatches came to me from Troy, Manchester, Chicago, Cincinnati, Lynchburg, Springfield and Montreal. It is impossible for human nature to stand the strain any longer. I must have the assistance of the order, or my most earnest efforts will fail. Will I have it? Hasty strikes must be avoided, boycotts must be avoided. Those who boast must be checked by their assemblies. No move must be made until the court of the last resort be appealed to. Threats of violence must not be made, politicians must be hushed up or driven out, obedience to the laws of knighthood must have preference over those of any other order. If these things are done the next five years will witness the complete emancipation of members from the curse of monopoly. In our [illegible] we require secrecy, obedience, assistance, patience and courage. If with these aids you strengthen my hands I will continue in the work; if you do not desire to assist me in this way, then select a man better qualified to obey your will, and I will retire in his favor."

TRAIN DITCHED BY STRIKERS.

ST. LOUIS, March [illegible].—News has been received from Pacific, Mo., about fifteen miles from this city, that the accommodation train running between here and that place was ditched by strikers this morning. No particulars of the affair have been received. An engine and tender carrying twenty-five detectives armed with Winchester rifles has been dispatched thither in anticipation of a conflict between the authorities and strikers when the freight train sent out from here this morning shall reach that place.

The Vandalia and Burlington routes succeeded in sending out two freight trains from East St. Louis this afternoon without serious interference by the striking switchmen. There were only two successful attempts, however, to move freight, and traffic is almost entirely suspended.

A committee of three of the striking Wabash Knights of Labor called upon the chairman of their executive committee this afternoon and informed him that they had struck, and requested him to inform them the proper course to pursue. The chairman informed them that it was his opinion that the Wabash men had no just cause for striking, and advised them to return to work immediately. A meeting of Wabash men is now in session discussing the advisability of returning.

STRIKE AT THE WABASH YARDS.

ST. LOUIS, March 2[illegible].—When the usual hour arrived this morning for the day force of switchmen to relieve the night men at the Wabash yards in this city no men appeared, and a few minutes later the announcement was made that the entire force had struck. These men, it is understood, were ordered out by the executive committee in support of the position taken by the Missouri Pacific employes. The situation at East St. Louis is becoming serious. The yardmasters of the different roads have been attempting all the morning to make up and start out freight trains, but have in every instance been prevented from carrying out their designs by the striking switchmen, who are using all the means at their disposal to make the freight blockade in that city complete. Coupling pins are removed from their position and trains [illegible] separated, switches are reversed and trains are run up on the wrong track. In some instances yardmasters have been forcibly restrained in their efforts to resume the freight traffic. No serious trouble has as yet occurred, but it is understood the officers of the law will be called upon to try to preserve order and property, and a conflict between them and the strikers is expected to [illegible].

AN ENDORSEMENT.

PHILADELPHIA, March 2[illegible].—General Secretary Turner of the executive board of the Knights of Labor this afternoon in an interview endorsed the sentiments contained in the secret circular telegraphed from St. Louis today, in which assemblies are advised to cease admitting new members and counseling moderation by the present strikers. This circular, he said, was not intended for publication, but now that it had reached the public he feels satisfied the orders therein contained will be sanctioned by the friends of the order.

[illegible] March [illegible].—A company of United States infantry passed through here [illegible] from New York this morning en route for St. Louis. It was [illegible] that the company was in advance [illegible] concentrated in the [illegible] threatened with [illegible] at St. Louis and west of that city. The officer in command refused to talk on the subject.

A BIG STRIKE THREATENED.

LONDON, Ont., March 2[illegible].—At a meeting of Grand Trunk engineers and firemen last night a delegation was appointed to wait on Hickson and request that wages be restored to the old rate, in accordance with a promise made at the time of reduction. It is rumored that a refusal will probably result in a general strike and absolute suspension of business over the whole Grand Trunk system.

STREET CAR STRIKE.

NEW YORK, March 2[illegible].—Employes of the Brooklyn [illegible] railway street car line struck this afternoon.

CHEYENNE VOTES FOR A SUBSIDY.

CHEYENNE, Wy., March 2[illegible].—Friday's election in this county for or against a subsidy of $400,000 in bonds for the Cheyenne & Northern railroad resulted in favor of bonds by about 2000 majority. The vote of Cheyenne was nearly solid for the bonds. The majority was 2350 in a total vote of [illegible]. Country precincts reduce the total majority in the county to about 2000. According to the law authorizing bonds work must commence on the new road in ten days. The road will run northward from Cheyenne to connect with the proposed line of the Wyoming Central railroad, near Fort Fetterman, on the North Platte river. The Wyoming Central is an enterprise of the Chicago & Northwestern, now being built through Central Wyoming to coal fields near Fetterman. The construction of the Cheyenne & Northern railroad will be of great benefit to Cheyenne.

THE HENDRICKS MONUMENT FUND.

PHILADELPHIA, March [illegible].—A Times Washington special says: John H. Inman of Indiana, who has been engaged in organizing agencies for the collection of a Hendricks monument fund, reports very favorable news from all quarters. The original idea was to try to raise a fund of $100,000. To accomplish this 10,000 agencies were established and an average of $10 each was desired. The time set for reports was the 1st of April, [illegible] quite a number of reports have already been received from small agencies of $1 to $5. About $5,000 will be the result here, and perhaps [illegible] from Philadelphia, and there will be as much from New York. On the basis of present returns the fund will reach upwards of $100,000.

A PROPOSITION TO GOULD.

NEW YORK, March 2[illegible].—Grand Master Workman Powderly arrived here tonight and held a consultation with other members of the general executive board. "We are in favor of ending the matter now, and shall submit this proposition to Mr. Gould tomorrow, [illegible] 'Let him appoint a committee of three, and we will appoint a similar committee. Then let these gentlemen select a seventh, then investigate the whole affair and make recommendations, and we will agree to abide by their decision. We will not ask for the retention of any man who has been guilty of an act of violence to either person or property, for we are not organized to promote or shield wrong doing.'"

THE CITRUS FAIR AT CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, March 2[illegible].—Mayor Harrison received the following telegram from Los Angeles: "Southern California sends greeting and rejoices with Chicago in the assured success of the citrus fair. Accept thanks for yourself and all your people for the generous encouragement of an enterprise intended to more closely unite our lovely and productive country with your great city." The telegram was signed by George Stoneman, governor; E. F. Spence, mayor of Los Angeles; Geo. H. Bonebrake, president of the board of trade, and fifty or sixty other leading citizens.

The fair continues to draw large crowds and is highly praised by the local press.

BIG BLAZE AT BUFFALO.

BUFFALO, March 26.—The North Buffalo flour mills were burned at noon today. Loss $40,000, insurance $[illegible]. The fire spread to the Gilbert [illegible] works and they were also destroyed. The building was a new one, having been erected but a few months ago, and cost $100,000. Fire spread to some buildings on Thompson street and several others on Dearborn street, which at last accounts was burning fiercely. At 1:30 the fire was under control. The total loss is roughly estimated at $[illegible]0,000.

CABINET MEETING.

LONDON, March 2[illegible].—Gladstone and all the members attended a cabinet meeting at [illegible] o'clock this afternoon. After a session which lasted an hour and a quarter Gladstone took a drive through the park. Chamberlain and Trevelyan left the meeting together and had a private conference. It was observed that all the ministers looked serious both before and after the meeting.

Gladstone will, on Monday or Tuesday next, lay on the table in the house of commons his motion in relation to the government of Ireland.

THE CABINET REACHES AN AGREEMENT.

LONDON, March [illegible].—The government's supporters here have been privately assured that the government's Irish programme has been settled by the cabinet. A home rule measure will be introduced first, followed immediately by a land bill. Both measures, if passed by the house of commons, will be presented to the house of lords together. Chamberlain and Trevelyan will remain in the cabinet until the home rule bill has been tabled. Gladstone despatched a messenger to the queen this evening with an important communication, which it is believed has reference to the home rule question.

GLADSTONE CREATES A SENSATION.

LONDON, March [illegible].—Gladstone appeared in the house of commons this afternoon. Referring to the announcement made in his behalf yesterday by Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Gladstone said [illegible] April 8 would take the [illegible] of the introduction of a bill for the future government of Ireland. The announcement produced a sensation.

BELGIUM.

BELGIAN TERROR CONTINUES.

LIEGE, March [illegible].—The reign of terror continues here. The mob broke into a manufactory of firearms last night and carried away its available contents. Troops have been sent everywhere, and this part of the kingdom is rapidly assuming the appearance of being under military occupation. Even beggars throughout the country are found armed. Arrests for disorderly conduct are constantly being made.

INFLAMMATORY APPEALS.

BRUSSELS, March 26.—The city was placarded last night with inflammatory appeals to the poor to rise up and fire and pillage the town. Police this morning tore down the posters.

SOME THREATS.

What the Baffled Anti-Chinese Men are Saying and Doing.

A [illegible] interesting meeting was that held in the anti-coolie rooms on Third street near B[illegible] Thursday evening. It opened very mildly indeed, but there was plenty to inspire the heart of the agitator before the evening closed. About 150 men were present. On the walls back of the president's desk were proudly flung forth the banners of the movement bearing the following well known inscriptions: "Remember March [illegible]." "We Mean Business." "Law and Order."

D. J. Quimby was called upon to address the meeting. He spent half an hour denouncing THE OREGONIAN and its editor and booming a scheme for a steam laundry. This latter he spread forth in the most glowing colors and urged upon his hearers to buy shares in an enterprise that was sure to drive out the Chinese.

President Cole of [illegible] Encampment No. 6 next ascended the platform. He derided Quimby and his laundry, and declared the workingmen did not propose to take their shirts away from Chinese to give them to a monopoly. "Not much. They would give them to their wives and daughters to do. It was cheaper. Quimby was a fine man. He was a leader. Where was he on the 24th of March? He had talked big, but what did he do? Nothing. He was afraid. It might spoil his political boom."

Up to this time the speaker had the sympathies of his hearers. They applauded the berating administered to one of their recreant chiefs with great vim. Whereupon the speaker declared Quimby had said he could buy their votes for $[illegible] each. This was a two-edged sword. Quimby and half a dozen others leaped to their feet and the conversation was opened at once. Shouts of "Put him out" were heard on every side. "Who?" demanded the speaker. "I'd like to see the man. Let him come right up here and put me out." No one accepted the challenge, and after waiting a minute he got down.

Another leader, ex-president of the labor bureau, then stepped to the front. He advanced the remarkable plan that they should quit boycotting the Chinamen and boycott the business men who [illegible] them. If the business men had [illegible] the Chinese would have all been gone by this time. As for himself, he proposed to buy everything he could of the Chinese and not a [illegible] of the business men. The Chinese were not the greatest evil in the country. It was the men who had grown rich [illegible] their attention to [illegible]. As for the 4th of March [illegible] past, but there will be another [illegible] soon, and [illegible] If the [illegible] armed men to prevent anything being done, and when that day comes there will be no drawing back, for the work will be done by something which has never yet failed and never will fail. And I tell you, my friends, when that time comes the Chinese will go, for then some of those evils which I told you of as greater than the Chinese curse will have ceased to exist. [Loud and long applause.]

After considerable more of this dynamite talk and threats against men of capital the meeting broke up.

MILWAUKEE LAGER BEER.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March [illegible].—The disciples of the school of total abstinence may perhaps take some comfort by perusing the following table of statistics, from which it appears that the aggregate amount of beer sold by the Milwaukee brewers during the year 1885 shows a considerable falling off as compared with the sales of the next preceding year.

It will be noticed, however, that the old reliable Phillip Best Brewing company has to retain [illegible] place and is still maintaining its proud prestige at the head of the column, while the sales of its principal competitor shows a marked decrease.

WITNESSES HELD IN CONTEMPT.

An Interesting Case—Capt. Boynton Starts Down the Sacramento—Notes from Tacoma—The Hostiles Surrender

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—The United States grand jury in session this afternoon has under examination charges against the captain and mate of the St. Stephen, charged with cruelty to seamen. J. H. Teale, one of the complaining seamen, makes the following statement of his experience, on which the charges are partly based:

"The trouble began on the 6th of January last, when I was furling the mainsail with second mate Simmons. He got mad at me and called me a —— of a ——. I told him that I was getting tired of his calling me such names, and some time I would draw a knife on him. He immediately pulled out his knife and said 'I'll cut your d—d liver out.' I replied that I would take back my remark and we went below.

"That night I was called into the cabin by the captain, who asked me about the affair, and I told him all about it. He sent me out of the cabin and called to Simmons, 'Here, you take this man and do what you choose with him.' As I stepped out Simmons struck me in the back of the neck with his feet, and as I got up he struck me with something that cut my head like a hammer. Then he and first mate Wyman dragged me up and the latter beat me with a belaying pin until I went down, when they both jumped on me and kicked me.

"When I came to my senses I crawled to the port forecastle and called for a drink of water. While I was waiting for it the captain and both mates came forward and Simmons attacked me again with a belaying pin, knocking me down on the deck, when they all joined in and jumped on me. The captain then said, 'Take that man by the heels and drag him aft.' This was done and they beat me again unmercifully. The whole affair was witnessed by half a dozen of the crew, but they did not dare to interfere.

"Next day the captain had me brought into the cabin. He said he was logging me and that I must sign what he wrote about the affair, or he would see that I was put overboard. I told him I would sign anything, for there are more ways than one for a man to fall overboard at sea. He would not let me see what he had written, but I suppose it was a statement freeing them from all blame. I am now going to give them a taste of law."

Teale is a young man about 25 years of age, quite small and pleasant in appearance.

CLEARLY IN CONTEMPT.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—Superior Judge Maguire today rendered a decision in the case of Richmond Stice, one of the witnesses who refused to testify at the trial of Prewitt for the murder of Dr. Powers at Hollister. There were sixteen witnesses in all who refused to testify, but Stice was the only one who refused to be sworn. The cases were brought before Judge Maguire upon writs of habeas corpus. In the case of Stice the court holds that witness was clearly in contempt in refusing to be sworn. Therefore the court ordered the writ of habeas corpus dismissed, and petitioner was remanded to the custody of the sheriff of San Benito county. Judge Maguire will render decision on the other fifteen cases on Monday next.

The city and county attorney will take an appeal to the superior court from the decision of Judge [illegible], in which he held that the Austrian consul, Henry Hochkoffer, who had been arrested and brought before him, should not be compelled to pay license as an importer of coffee. On the trial Hochkoffer's attorney raised the point on demurrer to the complaint that under article 1, section 10, of the constitution of the United States, prohibiting the imposition of duty or tax on foreign goods by any state, that he could not be made to pay license on sales made by him.

SEAMEN SUE FOR WAGES.

W. H. Munro and six other seamen of the sealing schooner Vanderbilt have filed a libel to recover $299, which they claim is due them as wages on the recent voyage to Behring sea. The schooner remained along the coast of California and the catch was 414 skins, each seaman having one fifty-fifth share in the catch, or eight skins each, valued at $5 each. In their complaint the seamen charge that Capt. P. C. Meyers refused them the necessaries of life which their business and the latitudes in which they sailed demanded.

GOODS ORDERED RETURNED.

The case of the people against the Merchants' tea company, a concern which retailed coffee and tea in cans, alleging that each can contained an article of jewelry from a collar button to a diamond ring, came up in the superior court today, but owing to the failure of the prosecution to appear the judge ordered the goods which had been seized by the police returned.

CHINAMEN ESCAPE.

The two Chinamen who came here from Victoria on the steamer City of Mexico, and who tried to land by presenting forged certificates, escaped from this city today by leaving for Victoria on the steamer which sailed on the return trip today, before the U. Very Good Advice.

Yaquina Mail.

It was easy for the average agitator to step over that line that marks the distinction between liberty and untrammeled license and actual crime.

The agitator of yesterday, posing before the public in the garb of a free man, enjoying the right of free speech and freer actions, stands today a criminal at the bar of justice.

Unnecessary forbearance and the policy of many good people to go easy is largely to blame for this, and we feel now the urgent need that such things may not happen in our midst, to say the agitators are not needed here unless he comes prepared to work. We need no speeches against those who are working. This community requires no advice on American citizenship, and is fully [illegible] will not be tolerated for a moment. So take heed in time.

THE CHINESE CLAIM FOR INDEMNITY.

An attorney for the Chinese who lost property in the recent riots, Mr. Hamilton Lindsay, of San Francisco, has prepared an exhaustive brief on the indemnity question, taking ground that the claims should be paid by the national government fully and without delay. He presents a tremendous array of facts and authorities to show that Secretary Bayard was wrong in rejecting the claim for damages on account of the riot at Rock Springs, Wyoming. This rejection, it will be remembered, "was on the ground that "as the United States are not liable for the acts of individuals committed in violation of their laws as to their own citizens," neither can they be held liable for such acts to foreigners, so long as both have access to the courts; and he holds further that his predecessors, Evarts and Blaine, were right in insisting that the arrest and punishment of the assailants of Chinamen belong exclusively to the authorities of the state or territory in which the crime was committed. He says:

> Remedies must be pursued in the proper quarter and through the avenues of justice marked out for the reparation of such wrongs. The doctrine of non-liability of the United States * * * has been correctly and authoritatively stated by my predecessors in office. * * * To that doctrine the course of this government furnishes no exception.

To this the Chinese minister replies, very naturally:

> What have we to do with Wyoming? We made our bargain with you. You promised to protect our people. At the time you gave that promise you knew your laws and your institutions as well as you do now. If you knew you couldn't protect our people why did you promise to do so?

In this retort the Chinaman has the advantage logically, at least; and we believe in law. The relation between a nation and its members and the relation between one nation and another are not analogous. A nation can not make a treaty with its own members. Between them there can be no compact from the breach of which a claim for damages could arise. By special statute in several states, municipalities and counties are made responsible for damages to sufferers from riots. But this is not a legal right, nor does it affect, one way or the other, the international obligations of a nation. This case is very different. The United States, as a nation, covenanted with China, as a nation, to protect Chinamen in this country. China has the right to look to the government to maintain this compact, and to hold it accountable if it fails to do so. Upon this theory the Oregon City cases are now before Judge Deady, in the United States court, and we believe rightly before that court.

The history of our diplomatic relations with China affords many instances contradicting the statement of Secretary Bayard. In the brief of Mr. Lindsay we find a complete and interesting record from which the following is taken:

> At the outbreak of the last Anglo-Chinese war American property was destroyed by the belligerents at Canton. By direction of Mr. Buchanan, Mr. W. B. Reed demanded reparation. The Pekin officials replied that the transaction did not concern them; it was a matter which "belonged exclusively to the government and authorities of Canton," and Mr. Reed must seek redress from them. Mr. Bayard's predecessor at that time was Lewis Cass. He addressed a sharp despatch to Mr. Reed, directing him to inform the Chinese that our treaty was with the government at Pekin, and that we would have nothing to do with the viceroy at Canton. The Chinese recognized the force of the argument and paid the money—thrice the amount fairly due, with 12 per cent. interest. Again, in June, 1871, an American chapel at Tientsin was destroyed in a riot. The American minister, Gov. Low, joined with the other foreign ministers in presenting a bill for damages to the imperial government, and utterly refused to treat with the viceroy of Chih-li, in which province Tientsin is situated. The justice of the claim and the responsibility of the imperial government were both admitted and the money was paid. Again, on October 17, 1881, the American ship James Bailey was wrecked on the island of Hainan, in the province of Quangtung, the vessel was looted and the crew maltreated; Mr. Angel, the minister to Pekin, wrote to Mr. Evarts, stating that he had sent in a bill for damages, and adding: "Should the local authorities be dilatory in punishing the guilty and giving satisfaction for the injuries done, I trust I can rely upon the imperial government for prompt and vigorous action." It does not appear from Mr. Evarts's reply that he disapproved of Mr. Angel's holding the imperial government responsible. Again, at the outbreak of the late Franco-Chinese war, the viceroy of Quangtung undertook to close one or more of the channels of the Canton river. Mr. John Russell Young, then minister to Pekin, called on the yamen to protest against the act as injurious to American commerce. Members of the yamen replied that the viceroy of Quangtung must be allowed to defend his seaport in his own way, and referred Mr. Young to him for satisfaction. The American minister sharply retorted that he was accredited to the government at Pekin and not to the viceroy of Quangtung, and utterly declined to have any dealings with the latter. Mr. Young's conduct appears to have been approved by Mr. Frelinghuysen.
> Many other instances are supplied by the records of the state department, but it is useless to cite more.

China, like the United States, is an assemblage of quasi independent states. In many respects the eighteen provinces are independent of the imperial government, as the thirty-eight states of the Union are in many respects independent of the federal government. Yet in the whole course of our intercourse with China we have never once consented to deal with provincial authorities in seeking redress for injuries done to Americans, though frequently requested to do so, but have invariably insisted on the responsibility of the imperial government for every act committed in any part of the empire. "It has been the policy of this nation in dealing with other countries (China is by no means the only instance) to act upon the law as formulated by the Hon. Henry Wheaton when United States charge d'affaires at Copenhagen in 1845, as follows: "Every nation is responsible to the government of the other nation for the non-execution of a treaty, whether the failure to fulfill it proceeds from the omission of one or the other of the departments of the government to perform its duty in respect to it." It was upon the theory involved in the above declaration that the Hon. Wm. M. Evarts declared at Geneva that "the liability of Great Britain should be measured by the rules of international law and could not be escaped by reason of any alleged deficiencies in any internal legislation enacted for the purpose of enabling the government to fulfil its international duties." Having formed our national policy upon this theory, and having made it the basis of numberless demands, we are now, by the act of the secretary of state, placed in a most humiliating position.

China has always made prompt and satisfactory return to us in all cases where American citizens have been injured in their property or personal rights. When missionaries have been driven from their places of residence from time to time, they have been escorted back and protected. If we do not do what is fair and right in this matter,—that is, if we do not make reparation for the damages done by mob outrage, who will say that it would not be fair retaliation on the part of the Chinese government to confiscate American property in China to satisfy the claims?

Mr. John Myers, of Oregon City, would oblige numerous persons at that place if he would let their OREGONIAN alone. As a borrower and reader of other people's papers he is a nuisance. And morever, he is inconsistent. He has no business to read THE OREGONIAN, has no right to read it, and on his own principles is a sneak if he does read it. Will not his neighbors, whom he is annoying continually by asking for the paper, request him to mind his boycott, and let them and their OREGONIAN alone?

Of the people who figured prominently in the social and political life of the nation at Washington four years ago, Secretary Frelinghuysen is dead, Miss Tillie Frelinghuysen is an invalid, unable to move about without the use of crutches, Mrs. Don Cameron is an invalid, Secretary Hunt, Gen. Howe and Gen. Grant are dead, and President Arthur is in feeble health.

A REMARKABLE APPEAL.

The circular issued by Mr. Powderly, chief of the Knights of Labor, of which we have the substance to-day, is a remarkable document. It is remarkable both as an exhibit of his own good sense and as a confession of the extremes of unreasonableness to which the order has been going, of late, in many parts of the country. He points out, in effect, that the course it is pursuing is arbitrary and suicidal, and he entreats the order to halt before it brings upon itself discomfiture and ruin.

The address is certainly well-timed. There has been of late a childish and passionate eagerness to appeal to the strike and the boycott, as if these weapons could reverse the laws of industry and give those who employ them any advantage they could desire, without reference to the interests of employers or the conditions of business. This is mere madness. What is unreasonable cannot prevail even when supported by numbers. Intelligence and moderation lead to success, while ignorance and passion only accelerate failure.

Nearly two weeks ago Mr. Powderly said plainly that he thought the strikes on the southwestern roads ill advised and without sufficient cause. He could not see the necessity, either for the strike or for its continuance. His latest utterance now makes it clear that he thinks these strikes were precipitated by the hasty and passionate action of undisciplined men who have been admitted into the order in large numbers, and who are actuated by the idea that they can carry all before them, ignoring the fact that employers cannot assent to terms that make it impossible to carry on business without constant loss.

Workingmen have an undoubted right to strike. If they don't like their employment they may quit it, singly or in a body. But when they quit it they have no right whatever to linger about the premises, with a view of preventing others from going to work. They have no right to obstruct industry and business, to stop trains or do similar acts of violence; and when they do such things they act unlawfully, and must be dealt with as lawless men. Up to the full limit of their own lawful rights, they may go, and no one will question them; but they must learn that they cannot step over the line and attack the rights of others. Men who are wise will not compel the authorities of the law to enforce this principle; for appeal to force for maintenance of law is never desirable when it can be avoided.

The wreck of the steamer Oregon was, if the theory that she was run into by a schooner is correct, due to the gross carelessness of her officers. The sea was calm, the sky was clear, and an ordinary lookout would have been ample protection from such a disaster. If her wreck was due to any other cause the glaring misstatement of her officers in regard to the matter is even more reprehensible than the carelessness which attaches to the first cause. The latest allegation comes from a sailor of the steamer, who was on deck when she struck, and is to the effect that, in trying to beat the Fulda into port the Oregon deviated from her course and struck one of the masts of the sunken Hylton Castle. If this is true—a thing that is not as improbable as the supposition that a schooner could have been so completely swallowed up by the disaster of colliding with the Oregon that not a particle of wreckage has ever reached the surface—it is not the only disaster for which the attempt to maintain the credit of having made the "fastest time on record" is responsible. Extraordinary swiftness in traveling is not, after all, as desirable as ordinary prudence and watchfulness.

It was intended to open the Columbia river (Moses) reservation to general settlement before this time, but there will be a delay of several weeks, possibly of several months. It was part of the stipulation that Moses should not be required to withdraw until the considerations for relinquishment should all be fulfilled. This involved the building of mills, schools, etc., which have been delayed. The Spokane Chronicle, in reporting these facts adds: "The Cœur d'Alene Indians are favorably disposed toward taking lands in severalty and the matter will probably be discussed on the proposed visit of Chief Seltese to Washington, which he is now preparing for. It is very desirable that both these reservations should be opened to settlement this year, as the coming immigration will soon occupy all the vacant public lands."

Senator Jones, of Florida, was asked the other day by a friend what he was doing in Detroit. He answered that he had some legal business there that demanded his attention. One of the wits of journalism says his "legal business" seems to be an effort to set aside a young lady's will.

The exposure of the connection between nitric acid and oleomargarine was the burning sensation of the day in a New York court recently.

SUGGESTIONS ABOUT THE LUMBER TRADE.

VANCOUVER, March 25, 1886.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I saw an item in your editorial columns to-day, in which you say, with great truth, it seems to me:

It is clear that, with transportation facilities that are fully adequate, and freight rates that will warrant competition with business centers, Oregon shippers will have to be on the alert, or they will be simply crowded out of the field by those who are watchful and energetic.

With your permission I would like to make application of this truism to the lumber trade. The difference between our system of doing business and that of the East becomes, to a great extent, apparent by comparing our quotations, occupying a half dozen lines, and Chicago quotations, occupying about a column of THE OREGONIAN. Here we load a ship or train of cars and send it off subject to inspection at point of delivery. There timber, lath and shingles are graded, and can be sold by sample as readily as any other class of goods. Here the mill men sell to contractors and consumers. There the product of the mills is handled by brokers, who supply the trade. Here one man undertakes the whole business, in spite of the fact that to be a successful manufacturer and a successful merchant requires variant qualities which are seldom found in combination. There everything is divided up, and men confine themselves to the one particular thing that they are particularly fitted for. Here the manufacturers and dealers are totally unorganized. There they have the perfection of organization. Here we cannot get any definite information in regard to lumber or logs. There they have statistics down to the last board and the smallest part of raw material. In view of these facts I would very humbly to suggest to my fellow lumbermen of the Columbia river, that if we should organize and adopt a system of grading parallel to the eastern system, so far as possible, we could in a short time compete with Chicago and St. Paul clear through to Cheyenne and Denver. I think our goods, for nearly every purpose, will be found superior to the Michigan pine, and I think that if we were organized, so that we could guarantee a certain value of fastness, the railroad companies would give us a rate that would enable us to reach a large part of the treeless interior.

I have talked and corresponded with lumber brokers in St. Louis and Chicago about this matter and they assured me that they would be glad to handle our goods if they could get stable quotations, but that this had heretofore been impossible, and they did not like to send out drummers and build up a trade depending upon a supply point that furnished no statistics. If they could know, at the end of each driving season, about what the output of logs had been, and if they knew the capacity of the plants putting directly into tide water, they could very closely approximate the prices that would rule during the season. I therefore suggest the propriety of an organization of lumbermen, not for the purpose of regulating prices, but for the purpose of collecting authentic information, agreeing upon a more thorough system of grading, for the purpose of negotiating for favorable freight rates, etc. SIANKOS.

ACKNOWLEDGED WITH THANKS.

At a meeting of the Hebrew ladies' relief society the following preamble and resolutions were passed:

WHEREAS, By the untiring zeal and efficient management of Mr. Neil Danziger in the development and training of the remarkable talent of the youthful Amateur minstrels, the treasury of this society has been replenished by the handsome sum of $165, thereby enabling the society to continue their work of teaching the young and relieving the distressed, indigent and sick of our congregation, therefore it is

Resolved, That the thanks of this society are due and they are hereby tendered to the Popular minstrels of Portland for their noble exertions in this laudable enterprise;

Resolved, That this society is under great obligations to the Portland public for their liberal patronage of our entertainment, and that our thanks are tendered to all those ladies and gentlemen who have furnished the refreshments, and particularly to Messrs. Hacheny & Co., of the New York restaurant.

The Silly Attempt to Boycott.

Drain Echo.

THE OREGONIAN does not seem to be worrying much about the boycotting business. What reading people want is facts. The people of this Northwest have learned where to get them, hence THE OREGONIAN will not be "ruined in a day" by such movements at boycotting.

There is another phase of this boycotting that laboring people should consider; that is they must find sale for their products (those who are not too lazy to produce such as wood, vegetables and dairy products; they depend on law abiding citizens mostly for their sales. Now if this business should be turned on them, by all who oppose the "agitation" refusing to patronize them, they would begin to see and learn what boycotting means. People can and will if necessary live on [illegible] tions, but they will not be without the [illegible] concerning a question causing such event [illegible] is the one referred to here.

THE NEXT CONGRESS.

Will the Democrats Maintain their Hold in the House?

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Some of the shrewdest politicians here are figuring on the chances of carrying the next house of representatives. The present democratic majority in the house is forty-three, which apparently leaves not an inconsiderable margin for possible losses. But in just two states, if the republicans should be able to recover the districts which naturally belong to them, fully one half of this majority would be wiped out.

These two states are Michigan, which has now seven democrats in the house, and Iowa, which has four. These eleven members were secured by the democrats through no other cause than resentment of republican voters, mostly foreign born, at the prohibitory liquor legislation enacted by the republican party. It is asserted by those in a position to know that enough other districts in the northwest have of late been carried by democrats on what is called the personal liberty feeling to make up the entire democratic majority in the present house.

In presenting these facts, no argument or moral is sought to be deduced. The purpose is merely to show the entire probability of a contingency which may change the political complexion of the house of representatives and show upon what a slender thread democratic control rests. Another contingency which may be of momentous import in the determining elections for the next house is the attitude of that powerful organization, the Knights of Labor.

From present indications this organization will make their own fight in their respective districts, and no man, be he democrat or republican, can confidently count upon their support if suspected of not being in sympathy with them. So thoroughly is this appreciated by members of the house of representatives that every one of them, when considering any subject connected with the labor question, approaches it as carefully and as gingerly as if he were treading on red hot coals.

Mr. Randall said recently to one of his democratic colleagues: "If we do not adjourn by June 15, we shall lose the next house." Congress will not adjourn by June 15. It may be gravely doubted whether there will be an adjournment by July 15, and many of the most experienced congressmen fix August as the date. The appropriation bills are not well advanced. Within the last two weeks the house committees have made better progress, but there is a disposition to prolong the debates. It is not probable that a political debate can be avoided on the postoffice appropriation bill.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

The most popular novels in a large circulating library in New York city are "Monte Cristo," "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "David Copperfield," "The Old Curiosity Shop" and "Oliver Twist."

Ex-Senator Bradbury, of Maine, who served in the United States senate with Daniel Webster, though 82 years old, has a firm step and bears few marks of great age. He was a college mate of Hawthorne and Longfellow at Bowdoin.

Gambetta's new monument in Paris comprises a pyramid on which is raised a group in bronze representing "Le Triomphe de la Democratie." It is to be given over by its makers to the people of Paris on the French Fourth of July (July 14), next year.

"Egg sociables" are now prevalent in Kingston, N. Y. Every young lady brings an egg along, writing her name on it. Each young man draws one of these eggs out of a bag, and must act as an escort for the young lady whose name is inscribed on the egg he draws. Particular care is taken to have the eggs boiled hard.

"Steamboat Frank," who was captured with "Boston Charlie," "Shacknasty Jim" and other Modoc Indians in the lava beds during the fierce conflicts of that tribe with the government troops, is attending the Oak Grove seminary in Maine. He is still a prisoner of the United States. He now calls himself Frank Modoc, and is studying for the ministry.

David Sinton, Ohio's richest man, is a Scotch-Irishman, and grew up around the big iron mills of Pittsburg. He began business as a clerk in a country store at $4 a month, then was clerk in a blast furnace, afterward manager, and at last half owner. After that the advance in wealth was rapid. He is worth $12,000,000 and gives largely to public charities.

Mrs. Mary Coulter, whose maiden name was Perry, and who claims to be a near relative of the famous Commodore Perry, is living at Russiaville, Ind., at the age of 116 years. She was born in Delaware in April, 1769, retains all her faculties except hearing, has been a member of the Methodist church for seventy-five years, and bids fair to add several more years to her score.

The Italics of "Polite Request."

Benton Leader.

Another Chinese wash-house has been blown up in Portland. The congress is bearing fruit. These recurring acts of outrage serve to accentuate, as it were, the resolutions of that assembly over which John Myers was so proud to preside. They are the italics of the "polite request." They are the very refinement of that new kind of politeness which the "congress" first instituted. It is not the men who place the dynamite and fire the fuse, cowardly villains as they are, who are alone responsible for this villainy. The people of Portland who permitted, not to say encouraged, the unlawful assembly, the incendiary harangue, the combination of conspirators, the open and criminal avowal of criminal purposes—these are responsible. That wretched, vacillating portion of the Portland press which did not denounce instead of encourage the whole vile movement is responsible. The respectability which lent weight to these assemblies is responsible. John Myers is responsible. Sylvester Pennoyer is responsible.

Sapient Conclusions.

Seattle Chronicle.

The Portland News endeavors to convey the idea that the Chinamen attempted to blow up their own house on Tuesday night for the purpose of awakening sympathy. It reminds us of the Hot's profound conclusion that the Chinamen at Rock Springs committed suicide and then burned their own bodies to conceal the crime.

Photographs of Mr. Matthews, the newly appointed register of deeds in Washington, show that he is a very light colored negro. This ought to be some mitigation to the grief stricken democrats whose souls were harrowed up by the thought that a white man did not get the place.

[illegible] SWITCHBACK.—Vice President Oakes of the Northern Pacific has just returned to St Paul after an absence of five weeks in New York Yesterday's Tacoma Ledger has a telegraphed interview with Mr Oakes from which the following extract concerning the Cascade road is taken "We have practically decided to put in the switchback at Stampede pass with [illegible] per cent grades We have found on investigation that by the use of a decapod engine, having a [illegible] inch cylinders and weighing in working order [illegible] total of [illegible] pounds we can successfully transport trains over grades of 300 feet to the mile and upwards This switch will be put in as soon as possible after the two ends of the track reach the east and west sides of the mountain—probably by November or December of this year The switch back might be completed in sixty or ninety days from the time work commences We had under consideration for some time the adoption of the Abbott system which would require the use of engines with cog wheels but upon careful investigation we have concluded to put in the switchback line As above indicated something may hereafter occur to change our plans as to the method of getting over the mountains but nothing can occur to change our purpose of putting in an overhead line to complete the connection between the two sections of the Cascade division We feel that with the completion of the Cascade division an immediate demand will arise for greater dock facilities at Tacoma. I have already authority to expend a considerable sum for the extension of railroad docks and tracks * * * We will commence our improvements at Tacoma as soon as the Cascade division is finished that is, the connection made by means of the overland line—so that wheat can be transported without breaking bulk We expect to move from the Palouse country the first year, fully 150 000 tons of wheat In order to be in readiness for this we have made a contract with the Northern Pacific Elevator company to put up an elevator with a capacity of 1 000 000 bushels"

ODD FELLOWS' LODGE AT LA CAMAS—On Thursday evening March 25, Past Grand Master G F McConnell as special deputy grand master instituted Wide West lodge No 43 I O O F at La Camas with the assistance of F H Stoltz acting grand warden Wm Rank acting grand secretary, T. APPEAL TAKEN.—Notice of an appeal to the supreme court in the case of Jacob Fuzer vs Lent & Young, was yesterday filed by the defendants The history of the case is as follows September 1883 Buzer put up a forfeit of $ on an agreement by which he bound himself to purchase fifteen acres of land in the William Johnson land claim He was to pay $325 additional and give a mortgage on the property for $1 0 The deed was never delivered to Buzer, William Johnson and his wife Mary B Johnson getting into a divorce suit and in consequence into a squabble over the signing of the deed Buzer first brought the case in Justice Simpson's court and an appeal was subsequently taken to the State circuit court and March 1884 a trial was had before Judge Smith and judgment rendered against Lent & Young for $25 and costs and disbursements. The grounds of appeal are first that the court erred in allowing plaintiff's motion for judgment on the pleadings second in giving judgment on the pleadings, third that facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action were not stated and lastly that the court erred in holding that the contract pleaded by defendants was contrary to public policy and void

SUIT FOR FEES.—Yesterday H W Davis justice of the peace of Madison precinct, instituted proceedings against the county of Multnomah to recover $ 40 fees in three cases of threatening to kill brought by Margaret Holland against the Day family February 25 One was against Ellen Day the second against Lizzie Day and the third case was Margaret Holland vs James Day All of the parties were held on $50 bonds each to keep the peace and were released on filing the same This was the commencement of the war in Tanner Ridge and the above mentioned were the first cases brought Mr Davis says the complaints were drawn up by the prosecuting attorney and sent to his court for service The county commissioners allowed the prosecuting attorney his fees but refused to allow those of Justice Davis hence the above-entitled action. The case will be tried in the state circuit court. A great many criminal cases grew out of the Tanner Ridge war there being a dozen or more in the police court Justice White ground out about half of that number In the police court the Hollands were made to pay the costs

THE LOAN EXHIBITION.—At the rooms of the Unitarian vestry yesterday evening there was given one of the finest displays ever seen in this city of various objects of interest and value gathered from the homes of many citizens Several large showcases were completely filled with rare objects many of them of great value from age or interesting association Old books China silver curios of all kinds, old needlework in samplers, etc abounded In addition the walls were hung with many choice pictures among which we noted some of great value A short programme was pleasingly rendered musical and literary and the usual refreshments were served There will be a matinee from 2 to 5 this afternoon and the exhibition will also be open this evening at admission 25 to 10 The opportunity to see such a collection may not occur soon again There will be the usual provision for entertainment by the ladies in attendance this afternoon and evening,

BREAKFASTING WITH ROYALTY.—The Honolulu Commercial Advertiser of March 3 has the following His majesty the king gave a breakfast at Iolani palace yesterday morning at which the following invited guests were present Capt M [illegible] Crawford Maj A S Bender, H [illegible] Kaukilou Mr Julius H Smith and Maj A B Hayley The Royal Hawaiian band was stationed in the palace grounds and played a choice selection of music Mr Crawford has been suspected of a hankering for monopoly and royalty ever since he had that yoke of black steers way back in [illegible] and now that he has partaken of poi with his royal nibs the king of the Sandwich Islands his jaws keeping time to the music of a royal band, he may be expected to be a more pronounced monopolist than ever He will most likely bring the band back with him and perhaps the island and the king and his neighbors in old Yamhill may expect in future to masticate their breakfast bacon and hot biscuit to pleasing melody of the tom tom etc

MAH JIM'S TRIAL.—The trial of Mah Jim for the murder of Lee Foy, was continued in the state circuit court yesterday At twenty minutes to 11 o'clock the evidence for the prosecution was all in, when the defense submitted their side of the case. By 4 o'clock all the testimony had been taken and the arguments were begun J J Walsh made the opening speech in behalf of the state and by the time he had finished the adjournment hour had arrived At 7 o'clock the court again convened when Mr Woodward and H Y Thompson made an appeal in behalf of the defendant followed by District Attorney John M Gearin who made the closing speech for the prosecution Nothing in the evidence adduced Thursday or yesterday differed much from that submitted during the previous trial of the case At 11 o'clock Judge Stearns charged the jury and at last accounts they were still deliberating

POLICE COURT.—Business in the police court yesterday was not over brisk John Telg arrested three arrested for sleeping in an old rum barn [illegible] first obtaining permission to do so was informed that the city would furnish him with employment and board and lodging for five days free of charge A boy who said his name was John O'Brien was fined $2 for begging on the streets He asked leave to go to Astoria and his wish may be gratified, W W Wilson a vagrant, requested to be allowed to go down to the sound instead First he said he wanted to be a bold brave fisherman and a moment later forgot himself, and said he had an engagement on a ship bound for Liverpool Judge Dement remarked "Wilson I will fine you $25 and you will be let out in time to catch the morning boat. If you don't catch the boat the police will catch you before night and bring you back."

NATIONAL BANK AT ASTORIA.—It is now definitely decided says the Astorian that the First National bank of Astoria will shortly begin business in this city, the papers having been drawn up yesterday afternoon The officers of the new organization are as follows President George Flavel vice president, George C Flavel secretary S S Gordon board of directors George Flavel George C Flavel Wm H Ladd C E Ladd Jacob Kamm John A Devlin and S S Gordon The capital stock is $50 000 all paid up It is the intention to begin operations as soon as suitable accommodations can be secured. It is thought probable that a handsome and commodious structure will be built by Capt Flavel on the lot southeast corner of Main and Chenamus streets in which the bank will ultimately find a permanent location

LECTURE ON ELECTRICITY.—The third lecture in the members' course of the Young Men's Christian Association was given last evening in Y M C A hall by Prof W N Ferrin of Pacific university Mr B N Fischer opened with a brilliant piano solo The subject "Frictional Electricity" was most admirably treated and illustrated by a large number of experiments many of which were very brilliant. Prof. Ferrin has the faculty of treating scientific facts in a manner that is easily understood by non scientific people, and at the same time imparting the most valuable information to the initiated Several of the illustrations occasioned considerable merriment and the audience departed thoroughly well satisfied with the evening's entertainment. Mr J K [illegible] Ross assisted Prof Ferrin

WILL STAY WHERE HE IS.—A mandate was received from the supreme court in the case of F H Cavanaugh sent to the penitentiary from the state circuit court some months ago to serve a term for larceny An appeal was taken, and the supreme court affirmed the decision of the lower This means that Cavanaugh remains in durance until the expiration of his time. He was sent up for beating a man out of $60 at a brace game. The victim was from Washington county Cavanaugh got him in tow by representing himself to be a dealer in agricultural implements. If we mistake not, Cavanaugh won't spend a cent for three years, as he has that time yet to serve.

STATE LAW VS UNITED STATES LAW.—Justice Goodell of Astoria has given a decision in the case wherein Pilot Nell sued the captain of the [illegible] Ferguson He had piloted the vessel in, and it is alleged was refused when he reported for service to pilot the vessel out [illegible] sea. The justice awarded him $50 to be the half pilotage in accordance with the state statute relating to that matter It is stated by the Astorian that the case will be appealed. This is a similar case to that of the Aberdeen decided by Judge Deady The trouble in all of these cases it is now referred to is that there is a United States law permitting the captain to take an opposition pilot if he wishes and therefore Justice Goodell's [illegible] will be reversed

AFTER A [illegible] COMPLETION.—The [illegible] Lime company yesterday let the contract for a two story building for a cooling floor and warehouse. It is to be [illegible] feet, and will be placed just north of the kiln and adjoining the railroad [illegible] The iron casing of the kiln will be completed to-day and the fire brick lining will be completed in a day or two. The work of constructing the inclined plane to carry the rock to the top of the kiln will be commenced at once. The reason for placing the warehouse alongside the siding is that much lime will be shipped in bulk by the carload

THE REPORTED OPPOSITION.—Yesterday afternoon an OREGONIAN reporter met Jacob Kamm and questioned him as to the facts relative to the reported opposition steamboat lines to The Dalles Mr Kamm would neither confirm nor deny the rumor He said "I have not yet perfected my plans for the summer, and it has not been my habit to make public what I intend to do I usually go to work and let the public learn of it after I have commenced." The report that the steamer Multnomah has been sold is not true She will remain on the Portland Washougal route

SUBTERRANEAN STREAM.—The artesian well on W S Ladd's place near East Portland is now down over 1400 feet and is progressing at the rate of six to eight feet per day The drill is now in a very hard kind of rock but none of it comes to the surface owing to a subterranean stream which carries away all the borings. [illegible] what a stream of water is doing 1400 feet below East Portland is hard to imagine If the sewer of this city could be connected with it the Willamette could be kept pure and the residents of [illegible] might be killed off

THREE LITTLE MAIDS.—The wife of Volney Hall, who resides five miles west of town on the Canyon road, on the 23d inst, presented him with triplets all girls weighing 4½ pounds each The trio are doing well and look as much alike as three peas in the same pod so much alike in fact that they have to be labeled in order that the mother can tell which of them had nourishment administered last Mrs. Hall nee Kennedy is an Oregon girl of Irish parentage 28 years of age and this latest addition swells her family to the number of eight

SIDE BET.—J I Hallett of Springhill farm near Dilley in this county says the Hillsboro Independent and John Pender of Vancouver W T have made a wager of $100 each on the get of the issue of their entries in the stake races of Oregon for 1887 These races are for a purse of $500 offered by Beach of Dilley for the get of Altamont and the same sum offered by Van B DeLashmutt of Portland for the get of Hambletonian Mambrino J I Hallett is also owner of Mattie P 4 years old, the great Montana wonder

EXCUSE 'EM ALL.—Last night the school board voted that Jimmy somebody be excused for non attendance at school last St. Patrick's day, and discredit marks against him be not counted It is now in order for all the other "little kids from school" who failed to attend on the day of the 17th of March to make application to have their disabilities removed unless Jimmy somebody is a preferred pupil or a relative of some one who holds a claim against the district for extras

CONSIDERATION POSTPONED.—At the school board meeting last night the matter of the payment of the extra claim of architect Wm Stokes a claim due for plastering, and another presented by Whittier Fuller & Co came up It was decided that the consideration of all of them be postponed until there was a full board in attendance. This will probably be about two meetings hence by which time director D P Thompson will have returned from his trip East

TURKISH BATHS EVERY DAY FOR LADIES.—The attendance of ladies at the Turkish and Russian baths corner Second and Ash streets has so increased as to render it necessary to open the rooms for their accommodation every morning from 8 to 12 o'clock, except Sunday The rooms will be ready for gentlemen at 1 P M Ladies strangers to the manager should be introduced by some person known to him

DROWNED AT LACAMAS.—Thursday while engaged in working on a raft in LaCamas lake Peter Holtman was accidently drowned. He was a resident of Clarke county and about 28 years old It is said that the body of the only man ever before known to have been drowned in the lake was not recovered How it will be in this case remains to be seen The lake is very deep in most places.

WHY THEY AGITATE.—The Keenans of the so called Home hotel East Portland, who are among the loudest of the agitators against the Chinese, owe one Hip Lee, a Chinaman, $71 35 for washing done by him for which he holds their note and on which he is unable to get the money If they could compel the Chinese to "go," that bill would no longer affect the Keenan mind.

SURVEY COMPLETED.—County Surveyor Mayre has just completed a survey of a proposed county road, commencing at the intersection of the Cornell pass road with the Cornell road, and running thence in a northwesterly direction to the residence of C C Phillips, in the nw¼ of section 10 t 2 n 2 w total length of road five miles and three quarters

U S DISTRICT COURT.—Judge Deady will deliver an opinion in this court this morning, in the case of Karl W Norelius vs C J Holmes charged with assault and battery on the high seas on the British bark Sardinian

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

The regular meeting of the school board was held last evening President Wasserman presiding, Minutes of last meeting read and approved

COMMUNICATIONS

From Miss Alice A Gove, asking to be excused from attendance at the teachers institute granted

From [illegible] F Summerfield, asking for a position in the department filed.

From Wm Stokes architect explaining that his extra claim was for remodeling the tower of the high school building into a clock tower The bill for this service is $181 no action

From H H Northup attorney of the district giving his opinion as to whether the corporate limits of the city and school limits were the same and if children living outside of the city limits could attend Portland public schools without paying tuition Mr Northup decided that the law was very ambiguous and suggested an opinion of the courts on the subject

From county assessor Harrold that W T Shol was entitled to a reduction of $1000 in his assessment for school taxes on account of clerical error Granted

Director Dodd moved for the appointment of a committee to determine the value of High school diplomas as to an educational point of view That is that holders of Portland High school certificates be admitted to the various universities throughout the coast to the extent of their qualifications the Oregon state university to be included The matter was referred to the whole committee to be taken up at a future meeting

RESOLUTION

Resolved That it is the opinion of this board that rule 101 is frequently violated by the teachers of this district

Resolved That we as a board disapprove of the practice of detaining children for petty offenses or for not committing to memory [illegible] given [illegible] that are too long or [illegible]

Resolved That the [illegible] principals [illegible] directed to give their [illegible] attention to this matter and [illegible] that the spirit and intent of rule 101 are strictly observed

The object of the resolution is to restrain teachers from keeping children in after hours unnecessarily and from punishing one child for the faults of another It seems that some of the teachers have been in the habit of detaining their whole class for half an hour or so after school hours because four or five of the members misbehaved themselves

THE COURTS

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

The United States grand jury yesterday reported not a true bill in the cases of John Belsile and George Brown accused of conspiracy against the laws of the United States These are two of the Oregon City men arrested for their alleged connection with the outrage on the Chinese committed there

The grand jury returned an indictment marked a true bill against W [illegible] Etheridge, James Hartg and Jack Freeman, accused of counterfeiting silver dollars of the United States It is charged that on February 1 they made $100 and on the 6th of the same month they coined 100 spurious dollars

CIRCUIT COURT DEPARTMENT NO 1

H Schneider vs Lee & Mary E N Sanders garnishee—Garnishee allowed until 5th to file amended answer to allegations and reply to interrogatories

Charles I Jones vs Mrs. W. H Towne—Judgment on the verdict for possession of property or value thereof for defendant This was a suit to recover possession of a parlor organ

In department No 1 of the state circuit court yesterday was heard the case of Josiah West against James Taylor and E A Taylor father and brother of Frank J Taylor of Astoria. This is a suit to enjoin the defendants from maintaining a dyke The plaintiff claims that the defendants have stopped a water way on the Clatsop plains, thereby damaging land owned by him The case was by Judge Taylor transferred to this district and Judge Smith, in Astoria some time ago heard something of the case The matter was referred to Mr George A Dorris of Eugene, and is now on final hearing before Judge Smith on a motion to confirm the report of the referee It was taken under advisement

Of Interest to Athletes

James Robinson, trainer of Athletes at Harvard and Princeton colleges writes from Princeton, Jan. 24 1885 "For cuts, bruises, strains, rheumatism and colds, I always use Allcock's Porous Plasters for myself and pupils. Never have known them to fail in over one hundred cases. They strengthen the muscles and give instant relief They are the only external remedy used by our athletes."

THE EAST SIDE.

The City Officers Notified by the Jefferson Street Ferry Company—Republican Club Meeting Constitution Adopted

The following notice was served upon the mayor members of the council and street commissioner yesterday

PORTLAND ART CLUB.

The regular "sketch night" exhibition was given by the Portland Art Club last evening The subject given out was "Adversity" and the sketches presented were as follows

J W Moore—Hunting scene The sportsman up in the tree is supposed to be Moore himself, and the hunter at the foot is a wild steer, a pet of Howell's Sauvie's island farmer The ducks in the lake are probably enjoying the scene while the steer is enjoying himself in goring a cartridge sack which luckily for him is not filled with dynamite cartridges

W S Lohers—An old horse who has outlived his usefulness turned out to die, Rather a touching picture of adversity

A Burr—An abandoned hulk in mid-ocean helpless and a prey to wind and wave.

Mr Akin Mining scene A miner's cabin being destroyed by fire with his whole stock of beans, bacon and self rising flour Even "coarse gravel in the riffles and the bedrock a pitchin'" avails the miner nothing, when his grub is gone

J N Biles—A boy in trouble with his first pipe His looks as he sits out back of the wood pile with his discarded corn-cob, seem to indicate that he has struck reached the lower level of adversity.

C Maring—An impecunious looking man occupying a settee in a plaza His unkempt and out at the elbows appearance would denote that he had long been the prey to adversity

Mr Crestman Sketch of disappointed and disgusted [illegible] after the movement has subsided The bare room empty whisky bottle and dilapidated appearance of the fellow show that the boys have done putting up and the melancholy days of adversity have commenced

J T Pickett Steamship laboring in a heavy sea against an adverse wind.

Mr Smith—Sketch of a beggar woman with infant in arms It is a very good conception of the subject and took the prize on that score

Clyde Cooke Eve after the fall crouching under shrubbery picking fruits—other than apples

J Espey—Raft of shipwrecked mariners, borne aloft on a huge billow The last rays of the setting sun color the troubled waters and the unfortunates strain their eyes in search of a sail

Capt Rockwell A ship dismantled in a storm going ashore on a rock bound coast One of the crew thrown ashore by a breaker is clinging to a rock but out of the surf while a hungry wave comes thundering in to perhaps sweep him back to death A carefully finished and beautiful sketch

No sketch was presented by one of the club's most useful members, G. T Brown, who was unable to contribute this time owing to a pressure on his time through his teaching,

Messrs Smith Rockwell and Espey received the three highest votes for the club sketches Mr Smith receiving the highest for conception

The next subject given out is "Evening" by Mr C T Smith

WHO PLANTED THE CATFISH?

CASTLE ROCK W T March 25.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

On Saturday last Messrs Samuel Lloyd and James de Moltor succeeded in taking fifty three catfish at Silver lake The largest weighed 17¾ pounds A dispute has arisen as to when the fish were planted there I wish you would furnish us the correct date in THE OREGONIAN.

READER.

[THE OREGONIAN has no knowledge of catfish having been introduced in Silver lake or any other place in the Northwest But as the best plan for obtaining information on this subject the above letter is published and anyone who knows anything about the catfish of Silver lake will please come to the front and tell THE OREGONIAN what he knows Is Reader quite sure that the fish caught are not gigantic specimens of "mud cat" found in many streams of this section, or some kindred species native to the coast "Reader" had better send a good sized specimen or two to THE OREGONIAN, "not necessarily to be eaten, but as an evidence of good faith," and of the fact that catfish are caught in Silver lake]

Ladies
Do you want a pure, blooming Complexion? If so, a few applications of Hagan's MAGNOLIA BALM will gratify you to your heart's content. It does away with Sallowness, Redness, Pimples, Blotches, and all diseases and imperfections of the skin. It overcomes the flushed appearance of heat, fatigue and excitement. It makes a lady of THIRTY appear but TWENTY; and so natural, gradual, and perfect are its effects, that it is impossible to detect its application.

Swift's Specific
Is Nature's own remedy made from roots gathered from forests of Georgia. The above cut represents the method of its manufacture twenty years ago. The demand has been gradually increasing until a $100,000 laboratory is now necessary to supply the trade. This great Vegetable Blood Purifier cures Cancer, Catarrh, Scrofula, Eczema, Ulcers, Rheumatism and Blood Taint, hereditary or otherwise, without the use of Mercury or Potash.

OLYMPIA NOTES.

OLYMPIA, W. T., March 24.

The steamer Hayward is now making daily trips to Seattle and back, leaving this place at 7 A. M.

Business seems to be pushing towards the southern part of town, two establishments having been opened on Main street during the past week,—one by Miss Nellie McCausland as a millinery store, and the other a general grocery by Mr. George Thompson.

After raining, hailing and blowing for several days almost without intermission, the weather has suddenly turned round and changed its tactics, and once more we are in the enjoyment of spring sunshine, with the appearance of its continuation. Peach and plum trees are in blossom already, and if frost does not interfere we may look for a productive fruit season.

The Chinaman Tung, accused of shooting at Charles Hewitt near this city in October, 1883, was brought before Justices Keady and Hartman to-day for preliminary examination, having been held over several days at his own request pending inquiries made regarding him in Oregon City. At the time Hewitt was shot he stated that a Chinaman committed the deed, and that he was much larger than the ordinary Chinaman. Several Mongolians were brought before him for identification, but he failed to recognize his assailant until a few days ago, when he accidentally met Tung, who appears to be a stranger here, and immediately swore out a complaint against him before Justice Keady. As the Chinaman stated that he worked for a Mr. Warner, near Oregon City, a letter together with his photograph, was forwarded to that gentleman for identification. Mr. Warner in his answer identified the Chinaman as one who had worked for him for several years, but who had left his employ about August, 1883, for the purpose of visiting a Chinese cousin in Roseburg, returning to Mr. Warner's about December, 1883, since which time he had worked for him up to last year. Mr. Warner gave the man a pretty good character as an industrious man and one whom he thought would hardly be guilty of such an offense. To-day during the examination the territory was represented by J. Monroe Robinson, in the absence of the district attorney, the prisoner being defended by J. W. Robinson. Mr. Hewitt distinctly identified Tung as his assailant, and a rigid cross-examination failed to shake his testimony in any respect. Several Chinamen were examined for the defense, to prove that Tung had never been in this vicinity until within the past few months. After consultation Justice Keady delivered the opinion of the court that the accused should be held over to await the action of the grand jury, and by consent of the district attorney bonds were placed at $500.

OLYMPIA, March 25.

VOTERS' PROHIBITION LEAGUE.

Olympia has fired the first gun for prohibition. Last evening a mass meeting was held in Columbia hall in this city for the purpose of adopting plans for the coming campaign. Posters were distributed throughout the town calling attention to the meeting, but it is said that some over zealous persons took the trouble of tearing them down after they were posted, so as to cause a failure. Enough of persons, however, knew of the call to make quite a respectable showing, and before the conclusion of the meeting about a hundred names were added to the roll. The constitution presented by the Western Washington Women's Christian Temperance union was adopted by the league, the object being "to secure and enforce prohibition of the sale of alcoholic liquors under the local option law of Washington territory." A committee on by-laws consisting of Rev. W. B. Lee, Prof. Follansbee and J. N. Gale Esq., was appointed, to report at next meeting. The following officers were then elected: President, Prof. L. E. Follansbee; vice-presidents, Mrs. Nellie B. Hanson, Judge W. F. Keady, Gen. R. H. Milroy; chaplain, Rev. F. M. Robertson; secretary, Prof. John L. Henderson; treasurer, Rev. James Campbell; superintendent of literature, Mrs. B. W. Johns.

The president-elect, Prof. Follansbee, thanked the meeting for the honor they had conferred on him, but feeling that an older and wiser head should have the office, he requested leave to resign, but the league seemed to take a different view, and considered he was just the "right man in the right place," so his resignation was unanimously laid on the table, to give the gentleman time for consideration.

General satisfaction was expressed at the result of this meeting, which seemed generally unanimous in its action, although there seems to be no doubt but strong efforts will be made on the outside to cause divisions in the league and hamper its proceedings.

NOTES.

Hon. J. C. McFadden has gone to Washington.

Petitions are in circulation for the appointment of Hon. John Y. Ostrander as land receiver here in case a change is made.

Capital lodge K. of P., in this city, is growing rapidly, about fifteen members having been initiated inside of the past two months, composed of the best material.

Olympia has fifteen groceries, ten retail liquor saloons and six beer halls, and the revenue derived from the drinking houses by the city amounts to $5850. This makes one saloon for every forty-two men.

A boy named Doyle, confined in the county jail for attempting to kill his father, seems to have a mania for destroying animal life. Yesterday he seized a cat belonging to the jailer and cut off its tail and suspended it from the window with a written warning to all cats to keep their distance. Last evening he managed to light a fire on the floor of the steel cell so that he could have light to read. His mind seems to be affected, and he will probably be sent to Steilacoom.

ALBANY NOTES.

ALBANY, Or., March 26.

White Crawford left yesterday for Eastern Oregon.

Hon. J. K. Weatherford has gone to Lafayette on business.

The ferry boat is still sunk, and communication with Benton county is had by row boats only.

Mr. J. L. Cowan's family have moved into their fine residence recently purchased, near the court house.

Postmaster Irving has been confined to his bed for a number of days with illness, but is slowly recovering.

Rev. T. G. Brownson, of the Baptist church, has gone to Eugene City to assist the pastor there in a revival meeting.

The Linn county teachers' institute will be held in this city next week, commencing March 30th and continuing four days.

Geo. S. Royce and family returned yesterday from California. Mrs. Royce's health was much improved by the change of climate.

Wednesday afternoon Marx Baumgart's little girl was severely bitten in the arm by a dog, and is yet suffering quite severely from the wound.

Mr. J. M. Horn is in the city. Mr. Horn was formerly a resident of this city, being interested in the Pacific flax works. He quite recently returned from England.

The republican county central committee met in this city last Wednesday and appointed precinct meetings to be held April 6, at 1 o'clock P. M., and the county convention at the court house in this city, on April 16, at 1 o'clock P. M.

Public talk on the streets is about equally divided between the railroad question and the action taken by the last meeting of the common council, in adopting a minority report which was favorable to the petition for a city Keady liquor law license.

J. N. Hoffman, chief engineer of the Albany fire department, went to Portland to-day to attend the meeting of the board of directors of the State Firemen's association. All firemen are anxious to know in which month the tournament will be held, and that question will be decided at once.

Several months ago a saddle and a number of tools were stolen from the barn of Mr. Backensto here. Two men were arrested for the crime but were discharged for want of evidence. The tools were found near Jefferson and yesterday Mr. Backensto received the saddle from Corvallis where it was sold to Mr. Elgin by one of the men arrested.

At the urgent solicitation of many friends throughout the state, Dr. R. N. Blackburn has consented to allow his name to be presented to the coming republican state convention for the position of supreme judge. The judge is an able attorney who has very successfully followed his business in this state for a number of years, and if elected to this high position would no doubt fill the office with credit to himself and the people whom he would represent.

EUGENE NOTES.

EUGENE, March 26.

J. O. Rhinehart starts a new enterprise next week, opening a regular "Mikado" tea store.

Dr. McAllister will discuss "The Spirit of Christianity" next Sunday at the Christian church.

Hon. H. C. Humphrey's wife attempted to "boycott" him last Wednesday, but it proved a fine daughter.

The I. O. G. T. will give an entertainment and tea party for the benefit of their lodge on Saturday evening.

The commissioners are advertising for the removal of the last obstruction in the county road from Eugene to the head of tide on the Siuslaw bay.

Quite a number of our citizens have secured lots in the town of Acme, on the Siuslaw, and propose to erect summer residences on them the present season.

The evangelist Dr. Graves succeeded in awakening considerable religious enthusiasm. The Universalists have been almost as much revived as the Baptists.

Mr. J. W. Cherry has purchased the Brownsville clothing house, taking possession the first of the week. Mr. McCarthy, the former manager, will return to Portland.

Rev. Dr. Geary surrenders his pulpit on the 1st prox. We are not advised who will succeed him. The church will indeed be fortunate if they succeed in securing his equal.

A greater number of candidates for office than usual. Every little contemptible corner is being looked after and the office-seeking mania is increasing rather than dying out.

Real estate has taken quite a boom within the last few weeks and several business lots have changed hands at rates that until very recently would have been considered fabulous.

J. D. Matlock and Peter Bosch will erect a handsome two story brick block in the near future. Plans and specifications are now being prepared, which will include two very commodious business rooms besides several offices.

Only about one-third enough stock has been subscribed to secure the erection of water works, and we fear that owing to the illness of Mr. Charles Lauer, the principal capitalist interested, the work may be indefinitely postponed.

The temperance lectures delivered by Miss Narcissa White upon the occasion of her recent visit to this city were highly appreciated by all who heard her. She really taught in superior style and gave to her listeners many new thoughts and redressed old facts in most attractive styles. She made friends for truth and soberness with every well rounded argument.

REDDING'S RUSSIA SALVE has proved its efficiency by a [illegible] of three-quarters of a century. 2

Merchant [illegible] re-opening March 29. First-class and competent heads of departments.

COMMERCIAL.

FRIDAY, March 26.

The northern steamer will probably sail on the afternoon of the 2d prox., receiving freight the day before.

The gross earnings of the O. R. & N. Co. for February were $393,600, an increase of $66,718 over the same month last year. The gross earnings of the N. P. R. R. for February were $567,227, a decrease of $737 over the same month last year.

Overland receipts include 4 cars implements, 170 bbls 30 cs mineral water, 517 grindstones, 74 family refrigerators and ice chests, car wagons, 202 rls barbed wire, 15 cs hats, 59 cs boots and shoes, 70 cs cocoanut, 200 bdls broom handles, 15 sks seed, 26 bdls newspaper, 25 cs canned goods, 25 cs lard, 1 cs cigars, 30 butts tobacco.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours: 5657 ctls wheat, 2647 bbls flour, 747 ctls oats, 184 ctls bran, 1372 ctls millstuff, 679 sks potatoes, 150 lbs hides, 107 cs eggs, 8 bxs fruit, 2 cs butter, 290 sheep. Also 9730 ctls wheat, 662 bbls flour, 725 lbs hides from the eastern section.

EXPORTS—To San Francisco per str Columbia: 6551 ctls wheat, 880 qr 2705 hf sks flour, 5957 ctls oats, 495 ctls barley, 4370 sks potatoes, 178 sks 22 cses onions, 87 bxs fruit, 26 cs eggs, 1550 sks bran, 55 tons pig iron, 8 hf 1 bbl 1 bx 1 kg 10 tubs butter, 9 sks horseradish, 30 sks leather, 1 sk tails, 31 sks pickled skins, 36 bls calfskins, 14 bls sheepskins, 1 dry 420 green hides, 3860 lbs wool, 73 sks bones, 1 bl blankets, 10 cs woolens, 2000 bdls lath, 240 tons old railway iron, 9 cook stoves, 100 nests cedar tubs, 60 cs lye, 904 sks ore, 29,000 ft ash lumber, 19 horses, 1 colt, $20,697 treasure.

WHEAT—Telegraphed markets appear steadier, and there is less tendency toward weakness abroad. With us there is next to nothing in the way of trade passing, and quotations are largely nominal. The west side is sending more wheat by rail and less by water. For a short time the narrow gauge sent its wheat here by boat from Dayton. The recently advertised rate of 10c per hundred by the narrow gauge west side is probably a thing of the past, for 12c and 13c is now charged from all points but Monmouth. This change was made without notice, at least to city shippers, who also say they paid 5c "back charges" at times when the 10c rate obtained. That interior shippers were not notified of the raise is evident from letters received here. Local freights are quite as uncertain as distant ones.

OATS—The market wears an easy tone and transactions are light. Values show no change.

ONIONS—Unsettled as regards the shipping market. A higher range is quoted to-day. Local market unchanged, but sellers are more anxious.

EGGS—Off to 10c and the market is still weak, because of large stocks and receipts.

CHICKENS—Quote $3@4.

ANÆMIA

Is the most virulent form of blood-poisoning. Less speedily fatal, but not less certainly so, is the vitiation of the blood of which the first symptoms are Pimples, Sties, Boils, and Cutaneous Eruptions. When the taint of Scrofula gives warning of its presence by such indications, no time should be lost in using AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, the only perfect and reliable medicine for the purification of the blood.

SCROFULA

Is a foul corruption in the blood that rots out all the machinery of life. Nothing will eradicate it from the system and prevent its transmission to offspring but AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. This preparation is also the only one that will cleanse the blood of Mercurial poison and the taint of Contagious Diseases. Impoverished blood is productive of

ANÆMIA,

A wretched condition indicated by Pallid Skin, Flaccid Muscles, Shattered Nerves, and Melancholy. Its first symptoms are Weakness, Languor, Loss of Nerve Force, and Mental Dejection. Its course, unchecked, leads inevitably to insanity or death. Women frequently suffer from it. The only medicine that, while purifying the blood, enriches it with new vitality, and invigorates the whole system, is

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass

Sold by all druggists: Price $1; six bottles for $5.

[From the San Jose Evening News, Monday, March 1st, 1886.]

A MIRACLE MAKER!

EXTRAORDINARY EXHIBITION AT THE THEATER.

Helpless Cripples Carried on the Stage, Walk Off as Well as Ever in a Few Minutes!

"Why, it reminds one of the miracles of the olden times," was the remark of a lady at the close of Dr. Geismardo's extraordinary exhibition at the California Theater, last night.

The Doctor's peculiar style of advertising, and his general and extremely bold statement that he would guarantee "absolute cure in twenty-four hours of rheumatism, gout, dyspepsia, neuralgia, kidney diseases, general debility, etc.," was also extraordinary, and the result was that there was not even standing room in the California Theater when the curtain arose, at 8 o'clock last evening.

Mr. Dodd, the Doctor's agent and secretary, stepped forward and asked that a committee of well known citizens be appointed by the audience for the purpose of presenting subjects for treatment.

In response to calls from the audience, several gentlemen stepped to the front and took the seats reserved for the committee. Among the familiar faces on the committee were Joseph H. Scull, Prof. English, Prof. River and J. H. Miller. Several physicians who were present were called for, but they did not go forward.

When the committee was formed, Dr. Geismardo was introduced. As the gentleman stepped quickly from behind the scenes and down to the footlights in the center of the stage, it was apparent at once that he was a most positive character, a man of great intelligence, and fully conscious of his extraordinary powers. He appears to be about 30 years of age, is tall, well formed and handsome, and with his black hair, moustache and brilliant black eyes, he is a perfect specimen of a French gentleman. He was in full dress and wore white gloves and diamonds.

He removed his gloves and said he was ready for business.

The first subject was a boy who had been born without the use of his lower limbs. The Doctor carried him on the stage, but quickly pronounced the case incurable, because there was no life in the boy's legs. The Doctor took occasion to explain that he could not put life in dead matter, and that there must be some life in the parts to enable him to afford relief or effect a cure.

The second case was a young man who had no use of his left arm. It was also pronounced dead and incurable.

The third patient was James Workman, a man nearly 70 years of age, who has been unable to walk, without the use of two canes, for the past six years. He resides in the vicinity of the Woolen Mill, and is well known in this city. Dr. Geismardo carried Mr. Workman upon the stage and seated him upon a lounge.

In response to the Doctor's questions, Mr. Workman explained that his troubles began about eight years ago, that he had tried a great many physicians and so-called magnetic healers, but that he continued to grow worse from day to day.

"I suppose you would be pleased to be able to walk without your sticks," said the Doctor.

"Indeed I would, sir," said the old man as he sat helplessly upon the lounge.

"All right; I will make you walk so that you will have no further use for them. Come with me," said the Doctor, as he lifted the old man in his arms again and carried him to the rear of a curtained screen on the back part of the stage.

The agent explained that the patient was removed because it was necessary to strip him for treatment. During the next ten minutes Parkman's brass band discoursed sweet music, while Dr. Geismardo devoted his attention to his patient behind the screen. A table containing various small bottles was on the front of the stage near the footlights, from which the Doctor took something every few moments and disappeared with it behind the screen.

Hardly ten minutes had elapsed before the old man walked out from behind the screen, and up and down and across the stage, looking as happy as a big sunflower, and apparently as lively as a man of his age could be expected to be. The sympathetic feeling which makes "the whole world kin" was shown in the thunder of applause with which the old gentleman and the wonderful Geismardo were greeted. During the balance of the evening Mr. Workman walked up and down through the aisles of the theater as if afraid that he might lose his grip on the walk if he did not keep it up.

Another remarkable case was that of a Spaniard who had not been able to stoop for three years. After a treatment of less than ten minutes' duration the man was as supple as an acrobat, and standing upon one foot he sat down upon the stage and raised up again without touching his hands to the stage, for the purpose of showing how thoroughly he had regained the use of his physical powers.

Several ladies were successfully treated for rheumatism and other pains, and relieved in every instance.

Tim Hallahan, who has been incapacitated for work for a long time on account of rheumatism, hobbled onto the stage and confronted the Doctor. Tim looked like the last rose of summer, and was evidently "all broke up."

The Doctor gazed into Tim's intellectual countenance for an instant, made a pass or two as if he would like to scratch the skin off of his alabaster brow, and then he said: "Now go on; walk right off quick around the stage." And Tim walked nearly as well as he ever did. Then the Doctor gave him a treatment behind the screen, and when the patient walked off the stage, a few minutes later, he was apparently as well as ever.

It is safe to say that the Doctor can do everything that he agrees to do, and that his exhibition last night was the most extraordinary ever witnessed in this city.
